Russia

The Russian Federation is known for having a great history and rich cultural heritage, and we are delighted that you have decided to explore it. Russia is, indeed, a unique country, which occupies a vast territory populated by millions of people. The lifestyle in Russia is different from that in Europe or America, so we have a lot to surprise you with! Russia might seem a very cold place where you always have to wear a fur hat not to get frozen. Well, yes – winters are cold here, but the warmth of the Russian hospitality makes up for the low temperatures outside. Besides, it's not always winter – summers in the Urals are as warm as anywhere else in Europe.

Russia is the largest country in the world, covering 17.1 m sq.km, which is more than one-eighth of the Earth's inhabited land area. It is considered a European country, although two-thirds of Russia's territory are located in Asia. Extending from west to east, Russia spans 10 time zones. The climate is characterized by a clear distinction of two seasons – cold and warm. Most of the country's territory lies within the zone of temperate climate.

Currency (coins and banknotes)

The Russian Ruble (RUB, RUR) is the national currency of the Russian Federation. There are banknotes of 10, 50, 100, 200, 500, 1000, 2000 and 5000 rubles and 1, 2, 5 and 10-ruble coins.

One ruble equals 100 kopecks. There are also coins worth 1, 5, 10 and 50 kopecks.

The standard voltage in Russia is 220 V, 50 Hz frequency, plug (socket) type F or C. Voltage converters and plug adapters are available in any electronics shop.

Ekaterinburg

Dear friends,

Welcome to Ekaterinburg, the city named after Ekaterina I – the wife of the greatest Russian tsar Peter I.

The two founders of the city were Vasily Tatishchev, a Russian statesman and historian, and Georg Villim de Gennin (originally, Wilhelm de Hennin), a military officer and engineer, who was, according to different sources, either German or Dutch. Ekaterinburg's official birthday is 18 November 1723, but for convenience, the city residents celebrate it in summer – in August.

Ekaterinburg is one of the major transportation and logistic hubs of the country, an important industrial center and, of course, the main administrative, cultural, research and educational center of the whole Ural region. The city's most interesting feature is that, geographically, it is the westernmost city in Asia and the easternmost one in Europe – so we live in the place where East meets West.

While ranking fourth in Russia in terms of population, Ekaterinburg is also the largest city in the Urals. The permanent population of the "Ekaterinburg City" municipal unit is 1,429,433 people (as of 2013). Local mass media unofficially refer to Ekaterinburg as "Russia's third capital".

Ekaterinburg is located in the zone of moderate-continental climate characterized by the variability of weather conditions and distinct seasons of the year, which explains sharp temperature fluctuations and weather anomalies: in winter, the weather may vary from hard frosts to thaws and rains, in summer – from scorching heat above 35 °C to chills.

Ekaterinburg hosts many large-scale international events, including the annual international industrial fair INNOPROM, Vienna Music Film Festival, numerous industrial, business and scientific conferences and forums. In June 2018, the city hosted four group stage games of the 2018 FIFA World Cup, becoming the easternmost Russian World Cup host city. Now Ekaterinburg is a candidate city for the right to host World Expo 2025, and the city's bid has made it to the finals.

Sightseeing spots to visit in Ekaterinburg

Ekaterinburg is often referred to as "The Capital of Constructivism". Constructivism is a style in architecture that was popular in the Soviet Union during the 1920s-1930s. This is why in Ekaterinburg you can find buildings that look like a tractor, a ship, or the hammer and sickle – the famous communist symbol.

Monument to the founders of Ekaterinburg

The inscription on the monument says, "To the glorious sons of Russia V. N. Tatishev and V. I. de Gennin. From grateful Ekaterinburg, 1998". Among the city youth, it is commonly referred to as "Beavis and Butt-head". This place is extremely popular with skaters, BMXers, rollers and other sport-loving youngsters who often practice here and show various tricks.

The Square of 1905 ("Ploshchad 1905 goda")

The Square of 1905 is the main square in the heart of Ekaterinburg. It acquired its modern look in 1930, when two smaller squares merged into one after the demolition of Bogoyavlensky Cathedral.

Yeltsin-Center

Boris Yeltsin Presidential Center is a social, cultural and educational center dedicated to modern political history of Russia and the personality of the first President of Russia B. N. Yeltsin.

Sevastyanov's House

The house was built in the early 19th century on the bank of the Iset river. It is a unique architectural monument combining Moresque and Gothic styles. Sevastyanov's House is included into the national cultural heritage list.

Academic Theatre of Opera and Ballet

Opened in 1912, Ekaterinburg's Theatre of Opera and Ballet is one of the oldest in Russia.

Rastorguyev-Kharitonov Palace

Famous 18th century landmark on Voznesenskaya Gorka (Ascension Hill). There are numerous legends associated with this palace.

Cathedral-on-the-Blood

Cathedral-on-the-Blood is one of the largest Orthodox cathedrals in Russia. It was constructed in 2000-2003 on the spot where, on the night of 16-17 June 1918, the last Russian Emperor Nikolai II and his family were murdered.

The Keyboard Monument

The Keyboard Monument was officially unveiled in 2005 on the embankment of the Iset river. It is a gigantic QWERTY keyboard with 86 concrete keys in 30:1 scale. Each key weighs about 80 kg.

Red Line

The fastest and easiest way to see the most popular sightseeing spots in Ekaterinburg is to follow the Red Line – the main touristic route of the city. The route starts at the Square of 1905 – look for the red line on the sidewalk!

Transport

Airport

UrFU Grading System

1 ECTS (credit) equals 36 academic hours.

UrFU employs a grade-rating system (“БРС”, Eng. “BRS”), where a student's final grade for a course is calculated based on the following:

- Attendance
- In-class performance
- Homework grades

- Test grades
- Final exam performance

The weight of each component in the final grade is determined by the specifications stated in the educational plan. The final grade is then converted into one of the following according to the traditional Russian four-point grading system:

5 – “Excellent” (the highest grade)

4 – “Good”

3 – “Satisfactory”

2 – “Unsatisfactory” (failed).
